Wilmington bids Cipriani fond farewell

Universal admiration expressed for Debbie Cipriani

By MARY LEACH
News Correspondent

mary@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON — In the weeks before Wilmington Recreation Department Director Debbie Cipriani's retirement, town officials and residents expressed a universal admiration for the 28-year public employee.

Cipriani was appointed by former Town Manager Michael Caira as the part-time clerk in the Recreation Department in September of 1993 then appointed to the full-time clerk position when it was established in July of 1995. In July of 2003 Cipriani was appointed to replace former Recreation Director Ron Swasey upon his retirement.

Debbie Cipriani has truly been invested in creating opportunities for Wilmington residents of all ages and abilities to be active and pursue their interests, said Town Manager Jeffrey Hall.

"Under Debbie's direction the Recreation Department has significantly

Retiring recreation director reflects on tenure, team

WILMINGTON — When Debbie Cipriani stepped into the Wilmington Recreation Department 28 years ago to inquire about a job, little did she know that she would become the director, forge friendships, and with the help of her colleagues, create a recreation program that is admired by residents and town officials alike.

Cipriani, who was born and raised in Wilmington, is retiring on Sept. 28 after 13 years as director and nearly three decades with the town.

"Getting the job was good timing," Cipriani said. "They knew me as I had been coming in a lot for my children and I used to go on the New York day trips. It's a great job. I love the people. It's so hard to think about leaving."

Cipriani took some time during her last weeks to reflect upon her time in the Wilmington Recreation Department. Her colleagues and friends Karen Campbell, program manager who will become the new director, and Linda Kanter, senior clerk who will

Textron no longer to manufacture Sensor Fuzed Weapons or 'cluster bombs'

By BRENDAN FOLEY
News Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

WILMINGTON — Textron will no longer manufacture Sensor Fuzed Weapons, also known as "cluster bombs", as reported recently in international headlines and confirmed in a message to Board of Selectmen Chairwoman Judith O'Connell.

Textron had been the only U.S. company still producing cluster bombs.

"Cluster munitions is a blanket term for a variety of weapons that distribute submunitions or bomblets over an area, often to destroy concentrations of troops and equipment or damage infrastructure such as roads and airfields," reported the Washington Post.

Cluster bombs have been in use since the Korean War and have been used in every major conflict since. Cluster bombs are "internationally derided," due to their tendency to not explode and instead crash to earth, whereupon they become incredibly hazardous devices that can (and very often have) killed and maimed civilians even after a conflict has been resolved.

One hundred and nineteen countries have agreed to an international ban on cluster bombs. The United States is not one of those countries.

The United States has not allotted funding for cluster bombs since 2007, but the weapons have been exported to other countries since, including Saudia Arabia.

The use of the weapon has drawn international protest, especially as recent investigations into the deployment of cluster weapons used by Saudia Arabia found that they did not meet the requirements set forth by the United

Cimaglia one of six finalists for the 'Peter J. Gomes Service Award'

By BRENDAN FOLEY
News Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

WILMINGTON — People in Wilmington have always known Lou Cimaglia for his incredible efforts in charity and community outreach, particularly with his work for local veterans. While Cimaglia has long made it a practice not to seek attention for his work, it has not gone unnoticed.

When U.S. Representative Seth Moulton created the Peter J. Gomes Service

Award to recognize "the individual in the Sixth District who best epitomizes the qualities of integrity, compassion, and commitment to community that were the foundation of the late Reverend Professor Peter J. Gomes' teachings," Cimag-lia was selected as one of only six finalists, nominated by Marie Doherty.

While Cimaglia did not receive the award during Sunday's ceremony, he admitted that it was a surprise and an honor just to be nominated.

"It was very nice," Cimaglia said. "It was neat to be with a lot of people doing a lot of good work."

Cimaglia has long served as Wilmington's Veterans Agent. The Massachusetts Department of Veterans Services named him the Veterans Agent of the Year in 2012. Cimaglia also founded Local Heroes, an award-winning non-profit. Cimaglia served as a Selectman for three terms before deciding not to seek re-election.

"Lou has transformed the operations of Wilmington's veteran services to highly responsive conduit for veterans and their spouses including financial assistance, health care coverage, substance abuse and mental health issues," his nomination said. "He helps people on weekends, nights and takes emergency calls. Lou has and continues to put others first. Service is his way of life."

His experience on Sunday served as a nice reminder to Cimaglia that he is not alone in his efforts, that in fact the state is filled with people striving to better their communities and help their fellow citizens.

"There's a lot of good people doing a lot of good things," Cimaglia said. "There were all different types of things that people were doing... You don't do things to get recognized, but it's nice to see so many people doing so many good things."

The Gomes Service Award (named for a later Pastor who mentored Moulton at Harvard) was awarded to Andrew DeFranza from Beverly for his work in creating affordable housing to North Shore Communities.

Cimaglia points to a common spirit between himself, DeFranza, and all the other finalists and nominees that came together for the Gomes Award, a belief in the value of helping others if you can.

"It was definitely the way I was brought up. My Mother said to always help others if you can. I like to think that's the way I'm bringing up my own children. You should help others. If you can do anything to make someone's life a little better, it's worth a little bit of time and effort."

Cimaglia received additional praise from the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, who concluded their Monday meeting with several words of praise and admiration for Cimaglia, led by Greg Bendel.

"It's a really deserving honor for Lou," Bendel said. "The award is given to someone who emphasizes commitment to his or her community, and I can't think of someone who epitomizes that more than Lou. What he does for our active service men and women and our veterans, I appreciate all he does. Even though he wasn't chosen as the winner, he's a winner in our books."

BETTER REVERSE MORTGAGES

Where is the bulk of your assets? For many retirees, it's in the home. To turn that wealth into income, many of them are counting on reverse mortgages.

Reverse mortgages—home equity conversion mortgages—are a lot better than they used to be. Rule changes have made them less costly and less risky. They require a financial assessment to ensure that the borrowers have enough money to pay insurance, property taxes and other ongoing costs.

With a reverse mortgage, the borrower can convert the home equity into a lump sum or a line of credit, but usually no interest or principal payments are due until the borrower sells the house or dies. The age of the borrower determines the amount that can be borrowed and the interest rate. It's wise to consider the age of a younger spouse as well so he or she will be able to continue to live in the house.

Should you consider a reverse mortgage? Let's look over your options at:

Facility Master Plan Committee meets with BOS to review ideas and proposals

By BRENDAN FOLEY
News Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

WILMINGTON — Members the Facility Master Plan Committee met with the Board of Selectmen on Monday night to review the ideas and proposals discussed at the July public meeting.

While praise and criticism had been offered at that meeting in July, the Committee had made no alterations since that meeting. Instead, they began soliciting feedback and opinions from the numerous branches of Wilmington municipal and school employees and administrators, with the Selectmen as the last group solicited for reactions.

The proposed ideas for repairing/building/altering/moving municipal and school buildings were created through a joint effort between the Facility Master Plan Committee and The Cecil Group.

Representing the Committee were Assistant Town Manager Kendra Amaral, Head of Permanent Building Committee George Hooper, and Planning and Conservation Director Valerie Gingrich.

Town Manager Jeffery Hull repeatedly re-affirmed that the Master Plan is not a hard and fast set of blueprints for future construction projects, but will instead serve as a kind of road map and compass for the sort of changes that the town would like to make, should the opportunities arise.

"This process is not intended to break the bank," Hull said.

Amaral led off the discussion by reminding the Selectmen and the watching community that even if the town opted to keep every building and layout exactly as is, this will still cost the town money in repairs and maintenance work that the older buildings demand.

One of the proposals floated by the Cecil Group at the July meeting was to heavily develop the Town Common into a new center of the town, relocating municipal buildings to that area and converting the Swain School site into a new building.

All five members of the Board of Selectmen voiced strong objection to this proposal, citing among other things the already excessive traffic in the area with the new traffic lights, the lack of parking brought on by close proximity to the High School and student parking lot, and the area already being heavily utilized by everything from the Farmer's Market to the Fourth of July.

"I think it's important to keep that an open area for practical use," Kevin Cairns said. "There are a lot of activities that already happen there for us to monopolize it with more town buildings."

A major subject of discussion was the need and desire for more senior housing in town, as surveys indicate that along with increased senior population is a desire for smaller, more manageable spaces.

Greg Bendel referred to accommodating the growing senior population as "crucial," while Michael McCoy, while advocating a very conservative overall approach, repeatedly stated his support for "true affordable senior housing."

Many ideas and hopes were batted around throughout the meeting. At the close, Amaral explained that the next phase will be to continue issuing surveys and holding public sessions, the better to truly understand what the people who live in Wilmington desire from their town.

"All this input is very helpful," Hooper said.

Kelleher wins Wilmington, loses state in low-turnout primary

By MARY LEACH
News Correspondent
mary@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON — Wilmington resident Barry Kelleher beat incumbent Peter Koutoujian in the Middlesex sheriff's race in his home town, but lost the Democratic nomination in Massachusetts in the state primary held on Sept. 8.

Kelleher received 298 of the votes cast in his hometown, as compared to Koutoujian, who received 201. Kelleher narrowly defeated Koutoujian in nearby Tewksbury, 391 to 325.

A graduate of Springfield College, Kelleher has 18 years of experience as a Middlesex Corrections Officer, currently in transportation.

Because Koutoujian was the winner statewide, he will now run unopposed in the November general election. Sheriff since 2011, Koutoujian previously spent 14 years on Beacon Hill representing the 10th Middlesex District.

"I have made it my goal to bring the Middlesex Sheriff's Office into a modern era of effective and efficient public safety, while saving taxpayer dollars and preventing criminals from reoffending," said Koutoujian in a statement on his website.

The Middlesex sheriff's race was the only contested race on the Democratic ballot. There were no contested races on the Republican ballot.

In other uncontested races on the Democratic ballot, the result were as follows:

Seth Moulton, Representative in Congress, received 436 votes. Elected to Congress in 2014, Moulton serves on the House Armed Services Committee, the House Budget Committee and the House Small Business Committee in the 114th Congress.

Eileen R. Duff, Councillor, received 380 votes. Elected to the Massachusetts State Governor's Council, District

5, in 2012, Duff holds a Master's Degree in Management and a Doctoral Degree in Ministry.

She received a Presidential appointment from President Clinton to work as Confidential Assistant to Commissioner Rachelle Chong at the FCC in Washington, where she won many awards for public service.

James R. Miceli, Representative in General Court, 19th Middlesex, received 455 votes. Miceli has been in office since 1977. In an interview with the Town Crier back in May, Miceli said, "I work every day and I work very hard every day at this situation. Right now, even in these last budget hearings which we just finished, I worked very hard for the folks in Wilmington and Tewksbury."

Kenneth I. Gordon, Representative in General Court, 21st Middlesex, received 50 votes. Gordon has served the people of Bedford, Burlington and Wilmington since 2013.

According to Gordon's website, during his first term as State Representative, Gordon helped to reduce the impact of family homelessness in the district and secured permanent education funding for the children of military families stationed at Hanscom Air Force Base. He championed the Uniform Wage Compliance and the Parental Leave Acts which were both signed into law last summer.

In other uncontested races on the Republican ballot, the results were as follows:

Richard A. Baker, Councillor, received 200 votes. A candidate for the Massachusetts Governor's Council for the Massachusetts 5th Governor's Council District, Baker has a diverse background, according to this website. He is an inventor of Ethernet and Web technologies, a small business owner, an Intellectual Property Licensing Executive, and a Software Engineer.

Bruce E. Tarr, Senator in General Court, received 221 votes. Tarr is the minority leader of the Massachusetts Senate. He has been a member of the Senate since 1995, representing the 1st Essex and Middlesex District. He is a member of the United States Republican Party and a former member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

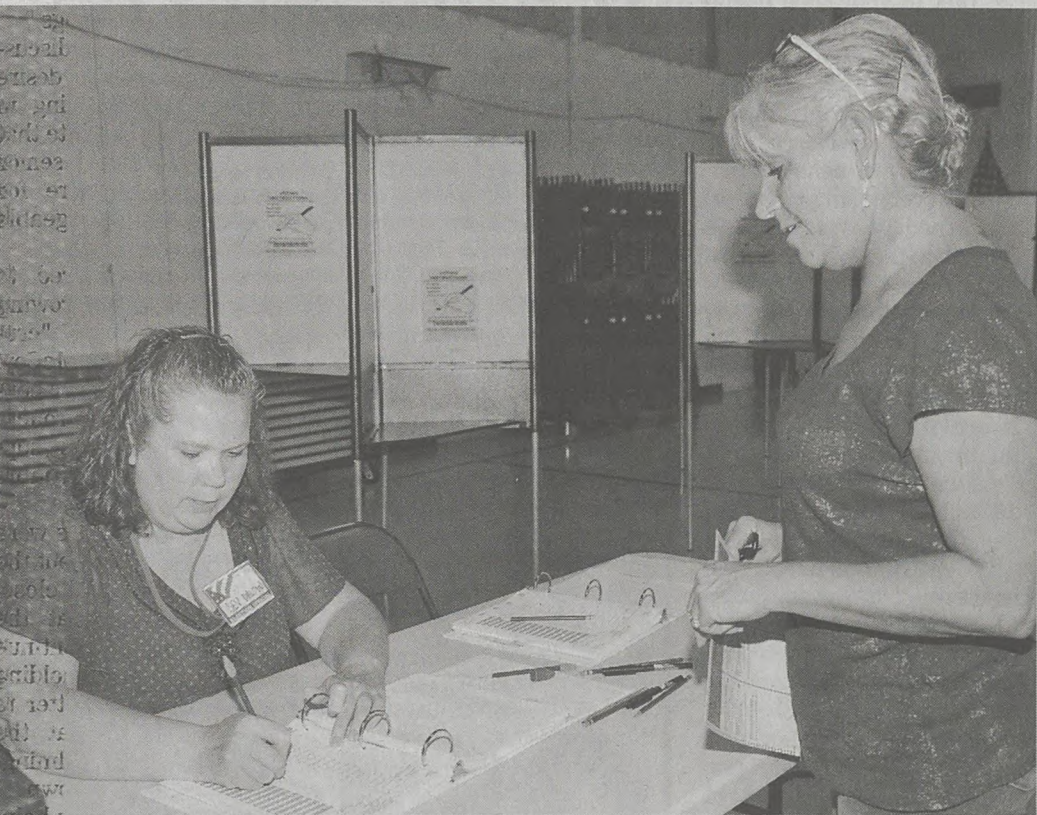

Paul Girouard Jr., Representative in General Court, 21st Middlesex, received 27 votes. Girouard has lived almost his entire life in the town of Burlington, Mass., where he has been civically active, according to his website. He is a Burlington Town Meeting member and chairman of the Burlington Republican Town Committee. He has worked in the high tech industry for nearly 25 years.

Angelo LaCivita, a write-in candidate for Sheriff, received 13 votes. Angelo LaCivita studied at Wentworth Institute of Technology. In 2005 LaCivita attended the Mass Police Training Counsel academy and was sworn in to the Middlesex Sheriff's Office as a Reserve Deputy. According to his website, LaCivita is devoted to making a difference in Middlesex County and reestablishing pride and respect to the Middlesex Sheriff's Office.

Overall voter turnout in Wilmington was extremely low, with only 790 residents voting out of 16,402 who were eligible to vote.

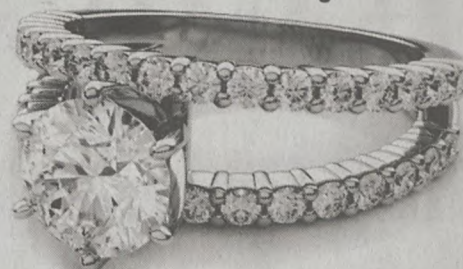

"The voter turnout was an awful 4.9 percent," said Wilmington Town Clerk Sharon George. "I've been here ten years and it is the lowest turnout we've had in a long time. Usually we have at least 1,000 voters."

Full town election results are available on this website: <http://www.wilmingtonma.gov/home/news/state-primary-election-results>

Wilmington 9/11 Committee to help Ielpi Family with several fundraisers

On Friday the 9/11 Memorial Wilmington High School Student Committee, led by high school teachers Mark Staffier and Tracy Kassin, invited the entire high school to support the mission to educate the students about the events of September 11, 2001.

The turn out from so many different departments was overwhelming and exciting.

Over the past five years the committee has motivated a number of student members who have worked very hard to keep our vision of educating future generation about the events that took place on September 11th.

With your help, we had a great turn out and have received some wonderful feedback from our students. The ones we have are very powerful and inspirational as the committee moves forward with the process of using the memorial and steel beam as an educational students.

It is obvious from reading the cards, that the committee is achieving its goals and honoring the spirit of tribute.

The committee is in the process of photocopying them but intend on sending the originals to the 9/11 Tribute Center in NYC.

The committee's focus this year is honoring firefighters, in honor of the Ielpi family who lost firefighter Jonathan on 9/11. In his memory, we are trying to replace some tattered and worn flag poles the Wilmington FD uses.

In order to help defray the costs for the worn out flag poles, there will be a fundraising event at Fuddruckers in Reading (inside Jordan's Furniture) on Thursday, September 22nd from 5-8 pm (please see Staffier, Kassin or members of the the 9/11 Memorial Committee for the coupon) as Fuddruckers will donate 20 percent of your total meal price to the 9/11 Club's organization if the flyer is presented to the cashier.

In addition the 9/11 Organization is selling 'Never Forget Memorial Car Magnets' for $5 each. The magnets are "7x3.5".

For further information on the fundraising events log onto: Website for fundraiser information is: <https://sites.google.com/site/wilmington911memorial/announcements>.

The committee members include Lindsey Amazeen, Shannon Horgan, Ivan Yermakov, Katie Colombo, Jill Troy, Jayne Wierzbicki, Veronica Walsh, Sara Troy, Olivia Kelly, Jessica D'Arco, Matt DeAmbrose, Sam Colombo, Holly Doyle, Beverly Banks, Taryn Suprenant, Jessica Moore, Danielle Baldi, Jillian Fino, Conor Kilbride, Julianna Mastroianni, Cameron Pickett and Dina Singh.

Jill Troy serves as the President; Jayne Wierzbicki is the Vice President; Matt DeAmbrose is in charge of fundraising; Ivan Yermakov is in charge of the public relations, and the secretary position is shared between Sara Troy and Shannon Horgan.

Letters to the editor

Truly disgusted with vandalism in Tewksbury

Dear Editor:

I have worked in Tewksbury for the last ten years. I work for a company that stores items for all different companies and charities. Our yard is accessible from the woods. Every year we are bombarded with vandalism and kids (I guess) breaking into the equipment and throwing the contents out on the ground, often ruining whatever they remove.

This summer was the worst. These pathetic individuals pulled out clothing and books belonging to a local charity and proceeded to urinate and defecate on the contents. What type of sad, pathetic low life does that? Are they so starved for attention on mental stimulation that they think this is fun or cool?

I am deeply saddened that there are these kinds of people or kids around. The police are always called but no one ever is arrested. Just venting.

Sincerely,
Pam DalPra

Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan shares tips for Back-to-School Safety

This school year, Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan is reminding parents and children about some helpful tips to stay healthy and safe.

With more than 233,000 children in Middlesex County beginning or returning to school, children are bound to confront a series of new challenges and unfamiliar experiences. District Attorney Ryan is thus urging parents to take a few minutes to talk about safety with their child, from safely traveling to and from school to being safe on the Internet.

On the Road to School

- Walking to School:
  - Walk in a group or with a responsible adult.
  - Always walk on the sidewalk.
  - If there is no sidewalk, walk facing the traffic.
  - Cross at intersections, in a crosswalk with a crossing guard.
  - Walk, don't run, when crossing the street.

Backpack Safety

- The size of the backpack should match the size of the child.
- The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that a child's backpack weigh no more than 10-20 percent of a child's weight.

- Pack lightly - a heavy backpack forces a child to bend forward and may cause injury.
- Distribute the weight evenly, keeping heavy items on the bottom and off the shoulders.
- Use both straps - shifting weight to one side may cause muscle spasms and lower back pain.

Riding the Bus

- Stand at least six feet away from the curb and wait for the bus to stop before approaching.
- Never walk behind or in front of a bus.
- Good behavior on the bus is important - loud noise and other disturbances can distract the driver.
- Keep the aisle clear of books, bags, and backpacks.

Riding your Bike to School

- Always wear a helmet.
- Wear bright colors.
- Respect the rules of the road.
- Know hand signals and use them.
- Come to a complete stop before crossing the street.

Strangers and Internet Danger

- Be Safe in the Community:
  - All children should know their address, a parent's phone number, and how and when to call 911.

- Teach your child to NEVER accept rides from anyone unless you said it is OK.
- Teach your child to NEVER talk to or accept gifts from someone they do not know.

Be Safe Online

- Clearly explain rules for using the Internet and social websites on your home computer, tablet and cell phone.
- Monitor your child's use of the Internet, including who he or she communicates with online.
- Make sure children and teens do not use their full name, school name, hometown or birthday on any social media site.
- Let your child know it is OK to come to you if he is uncomfortable about something on the Internet, no matter what it is.
- Set privacy settings on all social media applications.

Bullying

- If you suspect your child is being bullied talk to your child to gather more information.
- Monitor your child's activities and relationships with others, especially at times when observation is not expected.
- Supervise and review electronic communication like the internet, social networking sites and cell phones.
- Report an suspected acts of bullying or cyber bullying to your school principal

Cyber Bullying

- Talk to your children about how they communicate online and encourage them to speak up if they witness cyber bullying.

If you suspect your child is being bullied, and it is impacting the school environment, you should report it to your child's school.

- Contact your local police department if your child receives a message/image that is harassing or threatening.

Sexting

Mother-and-Daughter team up to fight back against Alzheimer's

Over six thousand people are expected to join the Greater Boston Walk to End Alzheimer's on Sunday, September 25 in Cambridge. Each participant has a reason why they want to raise awareness and funds to end Alzheimer's, including Wilmington resident Kimberly Marasca and her five year old daughter Olivia.

Kimberly's mother-in-law Elaine was diagnosed with Early Onset Alzheimer's in 2007 when she was just 53 years old. Elaine's husband Dennis cared for her for several years at home, often taking her to work with him as the owner of his own business. Elaine's decline was rapid. In 2011, the year Kimberly's daughter Olivia was born Elaine was placed into a nursing home.

Years ago, the family joined the Walk to End Alzheimer's to fight back against the disease that had changed the course of their lives with their mother. This year, Kimberly decided it was time for Olivia to officially register and fundraise for the event. Olivia had always attended the Walk, but now is officially registered raising almost $900 to date for this year's event.

"The Walk provides a sense of community and lets you know you're not alone," shares Kimberly. "Alzheimer's takes away a lot of hope and when you see thousands of people there for the cause it instills hope for the future."

Olivia and Kimberly will walk with a team of Elaine's family and friends, a team they coined "Elaine's Campaign." Over the last five years, the team has raised over $80,000 in support of the Walk to End Alzheimer's event. This year, Olivia's baby brother Nathan will also join the family at the Walk to End Alzheimer's, continuing the family tradition to support Elaine and the 120,000 people living with Alzheimer's in Massachusetts.

The Alzheimer's Association Walk to End Alzheimer's is the nation's largest event to raise awareness and funds for Alzheimer's care, support and research.

"We are grateful to each person who makes a commitment to the Walk to End Alzheimer's by participating, volunteering or making a donation," said Jim Wessler, president/CEO of the Alzheimer's Association, Massachusetts/New Hampshire Chapter. "The funds raised will provide support to people impacted by Alzheimer's, while also contributing to the research that is critical to putting an end to this disease."

Fire Department and Elderly Services selected for national training conference

The Wilmington Fire Department and Wilmington Department of Elderly Services have been awarded a scholarship to attend the 2016 NFPA Remembering When™ Conference. The team will participate in training to deliver the educational fire and falls prevention program sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA).

The conference, Remembering When™: A Fire and Fall Prevention Program for Older Adults, will be held November 2016. NFPA has selected teams from 30 communities across the United States and Canada to travel to San Antonio for the training.

Teams are composed of at least one member of the fire department partnered with an individual from an agency within the community that serves older adult; Lt.

Bill Cavanaugh from Wilmington Fire Department and Terri Marciello, director from Wilmington Elderly Services.

Following the conference, the team will return to Wilmington and conduct group presentations and training sessions to prepare additional facilitators. Team members will also bring the program to older adults during home visits where they will tailor the Remembering When messages and help older adults identify changes that will increase home safety.

"We are excited to provide this important training to help fire departments and local agencies meet their goals related to older adult safety. Many communities are seeing dramatic increases in the number of older adult residents and are strengthening resources to meet the needs stemming from this growth. Reducing risks related to injury and death is key and the Remembering When program is a helpful tool in this endeavor," said Karen Berard-Reed, NFPA senior project manager. "The data provides a crystal clear picture of the fire and falls problem for older adults across North America. Kudos to the professionals who are dedicated to the work of helping older adults live safely."

The Remembering When program has been implemented in communities throughout North America since 1999, to help thousands of older adults learn strategies to help them live safely at home for as long as possible. Program materials are available online at no cost.

For more information about Remembering When, visit www.nfpa.org/rememberingwhen.

Tarr named NEPBA Legislator of the Year

State Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) was named a Legislator of the Year on Wednesday, September 7, 2016 by the New England Police Benevolent Association (NEPBA) for his work on a wide range of criminal justice issues ranging from effectively penalizing repeat violent offenders to addressing the ongoing opiate abuse crisis facing Massachusetts.

In presenting the award to Tarr, Association President Martin Conway said "This award is given in recognition for your steadfast support of Law Enforcement Officers and their families here in the Commonwealth. It also recognizes the success you have had in the passage of bills directly related to NEPBA members and their families". Conway presented the award at a ceremony in Marlborough that was attended by police officers, deputy sheriffs, correctional officers, and emergency dispatch personnel from throughout Massachusetts and New England.

That ceremony featured a keynote address by Governor Charlie Baker, who spoke compellingly about the importance of the work done by those in law enforcement, and the support for them that resonates every day in his travels to cities and towns throughout the state.

Receiving awards along with Tarr were state Representatives James Dwyer (D-Woburn), Timothy Wheeler (R-Barnstable), and Senator Jennifer Flannagan (D-Leominster), all of whom Baker said have the ability to work with their colleagues to achieve results regardless of political party affiliation.

On receiving the award, Tarr said "I am humbled to receive this recognition from a group of people who dedicate themselves so passionately to keeping all of us safe. They face danger, remain vigilant, and make the necessary sacrifices so that the rest of us can pursue without fear the things that are important in our own lives. We can never thank them enough, and they deserve our respect and support, things they continue to earn each day in our communities".

The New England Police Benevolent Association is an incorporated, non-profit, labor relations support organization that offers legal and labor related assistance to roughly 4,000 law enforcement professionals and their support staff in Massachusetts and New England.

Wildwood Cemetery has many links to town's early years

By LARZ F. NEILSON

While cemeteries are oft thought of as spooky places, every graveyard is full of stories, and the Wildwood Cemetery is no exception. On Saturday, Terry McDermott will lead a tour of the cemetery, speaking on its historical aspects.

The earliest graveyard was set next to the church, begun in 1734. On the tombstone of a small boy was inscribed, "The first to be buried here." A macabre element is that the father of the boy was instrumental in choosing the site for the cemetery. No name was given in the source article in an old edition of the Town Crier.

The old graveyard remained in use until nearly 1800, when a larger cemetery was begun across the street. It is that cemetery that is still in use today. One of the first plots to be used in that new cemetery was that of Rev. Isaac Morrill, who served as minister of the Congregational Church from 1740 until his death in 1792. Known as "The Fighting Parson" he served in the French and Indian War and marched to Concord with the Minutemen in 1775. The plot, in the section immediately to the left of the old Town Hall, is marked with a large brick monument, resembling a chimney. Many other family members and in-laws are buried in the large plot, including Morrill's son-in-law, Cadwallader Ford, Jr., captain of the Wilmington Minutemen on Concord day, 1775.

The area behind the old Town Hall includes a small stone-lined pond, known as the baptismal pond. The old Town Hall, now the Arts Center, was built about 1845 as a Baptist church. The church was unable to continue, however, and the town took over the property about 20 years later. The stone lining of the pond was added as a WPA project in the 1920s, at which time the nearby stone building was built.

The cemetery received a large gift of land in the late Nineteenth Century from Dr. Mrs. France Hiller, extending the cemetery out to Wildwood Street. Mrs. Hiller became known as the 'casket lady' after she had two very large mahogany caskets carved for herself and her husband. Dr. Henry Hiller served as a cemetery commissioner, and had a very successful patent medicine business.

He died in 1888, before the completion of his casket. After his death, his widow took his place on the cemetery commission. Once his casket was completed, she created a large burial mound with a vault, near Wildwood Street.

At some point, she observed that the grass was quite sparse in the new section of the cemetery. She asked Schamiel Macintosh what might be done. Schamiel was a local blacksmith with shops and businesses in Wilmington Square. Schamiel was close with Mrs. Dr. Hiller, having married her niece, Agnes Mathinson in 1892.

He told her that the soil in that area was quite sandy, without enough nutrients in it. He recommended adding manure.

So Mrs. Dr. Hiller arranged to have a big party in the Town Hall, for the sole purpose of making the grass grow green in Wildwood Cemetery. Admission to the party would be $5 a couple, or a load of barnyard fertilizer. Very few people in Wilmington could afford the cash price, but everyone had a pile of manure. The results were said to be quite aromatic. And eventually, the manure was spread on the grounds, and the grass grew quite well.

▲ Construction of the stone building in Wildwood Cemetery was undertaken as a WPA (Works Progress Administration) project in the 1930s. The WPA was part of the Roosevelt program to provide work during the Great Depression. The building served as an office with a garage for storing equipment. (courtesy photo)

Mrs. Dr. Hiller died in 1900 and her elaborate casket was placed in the tomb with that of her late husband. By 1935, the vault was starting to leak. Her second husband, who had been her coachman, had the coffins buried and the burial mound leveled. The Hiller graves are marked with two large urns, near the first road on Wildwood Street.

Tewksbury's Gazebo is lit up in honor of National Recovery Month

September is National Recovery Month and October is National Substance Abuse Prevention Month across the country.

Substance abuse continues to grow, spreading misery and driving up the crime rate. Since January of 2016, Tewksbury Police Department has responded to more than 60 overdoses with 12 related fatalities compared to 67 and seven related fatalities for the entirety of 2015.

As we dig deeper into the science of addiction, we have learned that mental health has a large impact on substance abuse. As a community, Tewksbury strives to find solutions for people and families affected by these devastating diseases.

The purple lights adorning the gazebo in the Town Common are meant to bring to light (no pun intended) the community's support and unity for people in recovery as well as people struggling with substance abuse and the Tewksbury Police Department is hoping this will raise awareness.

Start a conversation with someone you love today and help bring awareness to recovery and substance abuse. More information about Tewksbury's Substance Use Prevention and Education Week (October 16-22, 2016) is forthcoming and questions may be referred to Maria Ruggiero, Program Director for the Substance Abuse Prevention Collaborative (mruggiero@tewksbury-ma.gov 978-851-7373 Ext. 352).

Hidden Old Orchard

Don't miss out on a historical seaside community

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent

paige@yourtowncrier.com

For the longest time I had no idea what the OOB white oval decal stood for on the rear windshield of cars. While I knew PI was Plum Island and MV was Martha's Vineyard, this one eluded me. Outer Banks? No. Then a friend invited us to her cottage in Old Orchard Beach, Maine. Got it!

People have been visiting for years and enjoying the surf, the bustling and compact downtown, boardwalk atmosphere, arcades, rides, and its oft photographed pier, along with yummy fried seafood and iconic Pier Fries, a mere 90 minutes north east of our area.

The town also boasts several large campgrounds, offering tent camping, motor home and trailer home sites, swelling the population of the town from May to October.

Old Orchard has an appealing coastline, not the typical rocky Maine outcroppings, which, though beautiful, are not conducive to swimming or walking or boogie boarding. The self-described resort community has been a tourist destination for hundreds of years, benefiting from rail service running from Portland to Boston, and handled in modern times by the Amtrak Downeaster.

A branch of the railroad was established from Montreal to Old Orchard in 1853 and thus became a favorite spot for Canadians visiting from Quebec, several of whom own motels and restaurants in the area now, with menus both in English and French.

At just over five hours from Montreal, Old Orchard is one of the closest sandy beach options for our neighbors to the north. In the small downtown, trolley service shuttles visitors around the area for one dollar and helps to keep the traffic congestion under control. Tourists may also just ride the trolley route in its entirety and get a scenic overview of the area.

According to the Old Orchard website, the town is named after an apple orchard that was owned by the founder of the town,

Thomas Rogers. Old Orchard was described as a "garden by the sea" in 1631 and has had the benefit of spectacular natural beauty, including salt marshes and estuaries which are migratory bird habitats.

In the 1960s, the area was designated as the Rachel Carson National Wildlife preserve, a 14,000 acre chain of federally protected parcels along the Maine seacoast, honoring its namesake for her devotion to protecting and preserving nature through photography, writing and environmental activism.

Away from the bustle of the main square and just a little south of the beach lies the hamlet of Ocean Park. This tiny enclave was a summer resort for the Free Will Baptist community in the late 1800s, and retains many of the original buildings to this day. Rows of stone cottages, original neoclassical homes, shuffleboard courts, and a youth recreation center enhance the camp feel of this tight-knit community. Homes have been in the same families for generations, and the community is dry, adhering to its religious values and Chautauqua roots.

The Chautauqua movement encompasses many denominations and defines several camp communities in the United States, designed originally as retreats for Sunday school teachers, but having evolved to centers for "rather earnest, but high-minded, activities that are aimed at intellectual and moral self-improvement and civic involvement" according to Ocean Park's website.

Perhaps most striking is the Temple building, a giant octagonal church that seats up to one thousand patrons for worship, musical performances, and speakers. Guest preachers rotate duties at the church, including former WBZ anchor-turned-minister, the Reverend Dr. Liz Walker. There are bike trails and access to the beach, and rumor has it that Ocean Park Soda Fountain on Temple Ave. has the best pancakes in Maine!

Now that the core tourist season has gone by, head up to OOB and enjoy the fun and history of this historic seaside community.

Red Kettle Ride on Sept. 17 benefits Greater Lowell communities

By MARY LEACH
News Correspondent

mary@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY — The Red Kettle Ride for the Salvation Army starts and ends in Billerica on Sept. 17, but its impact could be felt in communities throughout Greater Lowell.

The cycling event, which begins and ends at the Courtyard Marriott at 270 Concord Road, includes the choice of three scenic rides through the greater Lowell community.

Cyclists can choose from a 9.5 mile fun ride, a 25 mile challenge ride, and a 62 mile metric century ride. The registration fee for each ride is only $60 in advance, $70 the day of the event. Proceeds from the ride benefit the communities that the Salvation Army of Greater Lowell serves.

"The Salvation Army has many programs and services to help people in their time of crisis. Food, housing, and utility assistance are all available to those needing help," said David Childs, a captain at the Salvation Army. "The Salvation Army has begun several new programs that are helping people rise above their circumstances and become less dependent on others."

"Through intensive case management families are beginning to break free from the cycles of dependencies. The Red Kettle Ride helps fund these programs that are truly making a difference to our neighbors in need," continued Childs.

Don Lamothe, a volunteer for the event, said that in addition to the ride being totally volunteer run, there is one other thing that sets this event apart from other. "It's the route," he said. "It is well planned with lots of history, scenery, quite, gently rolling, bike-friendly roads. The metric century route has a short section that runs right through downtown Lowell and only has 2,600 feet of elevation gain which makes it an easy-to-moderately challenging ride for the average cyclists."

Registration is from 7 to 8 a.m. on Sept. 17 at the Courtyard by Marriott, 270 Concord Road in Billerica. Anyone above the age of 14 can participate. Participants between the ages of 14 and 18 need parental permission and supervision.

"This is a friendly, family oriented atmosphere with plenty of support including a bike mechanic at the starting line, support vehicle on call throughout the day, free lunch after the ride, well-marked routes with cue sheets, and maps provided. It starts and ends at a convenient location just off of Route 3 in Billerica," Lamothe said. For more information, visit <http://www.redkettleride.com/>.

Murphy comes back to high school as history teacher

Sessa's Corner

Julia Sessa is a senior at TMHS and is currently an intern for the Town Crier. She will be writing on different topics every week concerning TMHS.

By JULIA SESSA
News Correspondent
office@yourtowncrier.com

In her first year teaching at Tewksbury Memorial High School, Erin Murphy has established a love for teaching and her new students.

Being an alumni of Tewksbury High School, she took her passion for history and teaching and attended college at Westfield State University.

After graduation Murphy wanted to continue her love for the Tewksbury community by seeking a job out in TMHS' History department.

"I always remember wanting to be a teacher," Murphy said "My mother went for her Masters in Education when I was young and I believe that had a major part in it. Also many of the women in my family are teachers and I'm proud to carry on the tradition."

Currently Murphy teaches three sections of tenth grade Modern World History, one section of United States History and one section of Academic Skills and Strategies. Alongside teaching, during her free time she coaches lacrosse at the high school in the spring and loves to take trips.

"I've also recently started traveling more in my summers something I recommend to my students when they eventually have the means to," she said. "My most recent trip was ten days in Ireland. I don't know if those justify as hobbies but they are definitely things I enjoy doing."

Outside of TMHS, she lives a fairly normal life. Since she's still relatively young she likes to work in her share of fun with friends. In the few years since she graduated from college, Murphy has maintained numerous jobs, but when she is not working or grading papers she likes to relax and have a Netflix binge. Although this being her first year at TMHS, Murphy has already recognized that teaching is her true passion,

"Helping students succeed is by far the most rewarding part of being a teacher."

Murphy said "I'm sure other teachers would agree that seeing a struggling student overcome a challenge, however big or small, is what makes it all worth it."

Some advice she has for her students is to make most of your time in high school.

"Join a sport or a club, try something new and put yourself out there," Murphy stated "It's a quick four years and you want to look back and feel like your time here was worthwhile."

Murphy is excited to continue her dedication to the TMHS community, and hopes in the future to inspire her students as much as her teachers and family inspired her.

Town of Tewksbury issues a voluntary outdoor water ban

Last month, with most of Massachusetts continuing to experience dry conditions, Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Matthew Beaton issued a Drought Warning for Central and Northeast Massachusetts.

In response to the Secretary's issuance of a Drought Warning in the region, the Town of Tewksbury is implementing a Voluntary Outdoor Water Use Ban. All non-essential outdoor water use should be limited until further notice.

Under this voluntary ban, all non-essential outdoor water use should be limited to every other day, using an "even/odd" approach. Properties located on the odd-numbered side of a street should limit their outdoor water use to odd-numbered dates; those on even-numbered sides should use water outdoors only on even-numbered dates. Homeowners should limit outdoor watering to the hours between 6:00PM and 9:00AM. In theory, participation should reduce non-essential outdoor watering by up to fifty percent. Additionally, contractors and developers are urged to use water responsibly and take measures to reduce any potential waste.

The National Weather Services has indicated that the month of September is expected to be hot and dry, and drought conditions will persist. The Tewksbury Fire Department reminds residents to be mindful of the use of open flames within the Town. "Dry conditions are conducive to brush fires," stated Fire Chief Michael Hazel. "These can have a negative effect on property and neighbors."

Limiting outdoor water use helps ensure that enough water is available for essential needs, including drinking water, fire protection, crop irrigation and harvesting, and our natural resources.

For its part, the Town will be restricting its outdoor watering use to every other day and will limit its hydrant flushing program to address only areas of high concern. "It is important for us to lead by example," said Public Works Superintendent Brian Gilbert of these measures. "Limiting outdoor water use would increase our pumping reserves and our capacity to assist neighboring communities in the event of severe drought conditions." For information about the Voluntary Outdoor Water Use Ban, please visit: <http://www.tewksbury-ma.gov>.

Tewksbury Historical Society

Shawsheen River has Revolutionary War History

The Tewksbury Historical Society will host several tours this fall showing off Tewksbury's history. The first is a new tour called "The History of Brooks and Rivers of Tewksbury" on Sept. 25th and hosted by Society President David E. Marcus. The tour starts at 1:00pm or 3:00pm. Both times are at different locations and will feature separate histories for different parts of town.

The second is the 7th Annual Cemetery Tour on Oct. 23, 2016 at 2:30pm, hosted by Society Board member Kim Zunino. Reservations can be made for both tours by emailing the Society at info@tewksburyhistoricalsociety.org and list your name(s) of who will attend. The "Brooks and Rivers Tour" is free and it has 2 different starting times but the Cemetery Tour costs $5.00 for the general public and free for Society members. Pay to the Society at the Tewksbury Cemetery on the day of the tour - October 23.

The Shawsheen River was involved as a turning point of the Battle of Lexington-Concord, the first battle of the Massachusetts Revolutionary War, also later called the American Revolutionary War after July 4, 1776.

Learn about this and many other historical looks at our "Brooks and Rivers Tour" in Tewksbury on Sept. 25, 2016.

This is the first time for this outdoor event and will have two parts. First, we will meet at the parking lot of the Heath Brook School at 1:00pm on Sept. 25. We will ask people to car pool from this spot. Bring your hiking shoes with insect repellent, a bottle of water and we will start with a walk around the Painted Turtle Trail. Then we will go to the Jewish Bath Tub, the Trestle, and the Heath Brook site.

The second half of the tour will meet at the Tewksbury Library parking lot at 3:00pm. We will visit several stops for the Strongwater Brook, Trull Brook, and finally at Hunts Falls in the Merrimack River plus a visit where the Merrimack falls into the Merrimack River in an old section of Tewksbury's Bevidere Village, and is today called Lowell.

This is a free event for members and the general public. The tours are also good opportunity to bird watch or look for various Tewksbury flora or fauna as you learn history. These brooks and rivers are old enough to be here when Native Americans lived here and are products of the glaciers.

Tewksbury Cultural Council seeks funding/grant proposals

The Tewksbury Cultural Council has set an October 17, 2016 online application deadline for organizations, schools and individuals to apply for grants that support cultural activities in the community.

The MA Cultural Council has opened the online application as of SEP 1st. ONLY online applications will be accepted this year. No paper forms will be accepted. As a previous applicant, you would have been invited to participate in a webinar in August to learn about the online process. If you missed it, there is a link to the Youtube recording of the applicant webinar here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IMC8OF73uPM>

Here is the link to the Tewksbury Page at the MA Cultural Council website, with access to the ONLINE Application: <https://www.mass-culture.org/Tewksbury>

org/Tewksbury

The Tewksbury Cultural Council will host an informational meeting for the community on Saturday SEP 24th, at 9:30am to 10:30am, in the large meeting room at the Tewksbury Public Library. This meeting will be open to the public.

We will present the basic information about the grant funding process, timeline, and priorities of this local council. We will take input from the public on priorities for the future, and questions about the online application process for proposals. There is access to public computers at the Library, and from 10:30am to 11:30am we will offer helpful insight in the online process using the public computers if you'd like to complete the process with assistance.

According to Council spokesperson Pat Stratis, these grants can support a variety of cultural projects and activities in Tewksbury — including exhibits, festivals, field trips, short-term artist residencies or performances in schools, workshops and lectures.

The Tewksbury Cultural Council is part of a network of 329 Local Cultural Councils serving all 351 cities and towns in the Commonwealth. The LCC Program is the largest grassroots cultural funding network in the nation, supporting thousands of community-based projects in the arts, sciences and humanities every year. The state legislature provides an annual appropriation to the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, which then allocates funds to each community.

We estimate that the 2017 grant total will be approximately $8,900! Previously funded projects include: Tewksbury's Festival of Trees, Tewksbury Community of Artists' Annual Art Show, High School theatrical and spoken-word performances, and artist performances and programs for children and adults hosted in Tewksbury locations including the public library and senior center and in our school system.

For specific guidelines and complete information on the Tewksbury Cultural Council, contact Pat Stratis at 978-851-6206 or Jackie Stone at 978-851-9296 or email us at tewksburyculturalcouncil@gmail.com.

Link to the online application and more information about the Local Cultural Council Program are available online at: http://mass-culture.org/lcc\_public\_applicant\_process.aspx.

Textron shuts down "cluster bomb" production

States to allow their use.

While Textron officials have defended the manufacturing and retail value of the SFW, word has now come that they have decided to stand down.

"This decision comes after extensive discussions with our customers, the Department of Defense, and Textron leadership," wrote Senior Vice President and General Manager Brian Sinkiewicz.

"As Textron Systems fulfills final deliveries under existing SFW product contracts, we are in the process of evaluating its impact on our business," Sinkiewicz went on in his letter to O'Connell. "We greatly appreciate your continued support as we transition our business and proceed forward with the development and manufacturing of other advanced capabilities, products, and services."

Textron has stated that they expect their "reorganization" to be completed in March 2017.

Per the Washington Post, Landmine and Cluster Munition Monitor's 2016 report stated that the United States had six million cluster munitions in its inventory in 2011. In 2015 had roughly 136,000 tons of the munitions in a stockpile set to be destroyed.

Keogan held without bail; will face arraignment Thursday

By BRENDAN FOLEY
News Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

BOSTON — After a failed attempt to secure his release by the defense attorney, Wilmington-resident Patrick Keogan has been ordered held without bail for his alleged online threats to burn down local mosques and harm Muslims.

U.S. Magistrate Judge Jennifer Boal denied defense counsel Jane Peachy's argument that the U.S. Attorney's Office needed prove Keogan posed a serious risk of flight or violence. Peachy argued that using social media to issue a threat does not count as "crimes of violence", citing the federal Bail Reform Act.

But Boal disagreed, stating that Keogan's alleged threats to set fire to mosques, "potentially involve physical force against a person, and certainly involve physical force against the property of another. Accordingly, this conduct falls within the purview of the definition of crime of violence."

Federal prosecutors have cited social media posts going back to 2013 allegedly showing Keogan both issuing threats against mosques and Muslims, and celebrating destructive, potentially-lethal action taken by others against mosques and Muslims.

Keogan is also being investigated for allegedly violating the terms of a previous arrest by continuing to buy and sell firearms and ammunition. As with Keogan's alleged threats against Muslims, investigators were tipped off to his possible involvement with firearms due to social media posts.

Keogan will face arraignment on Thursday.

Workforce Training Grants awarded to Wilmington-based company

The Baker-Polito Administration awarded more than $2.4 million in workforce training fund grants to 25 companies to train current or newly hired workers. This round of grant funding will help train 2,162 workers, and is expected to create 263 new jobs.

"We have made workforce development a priority for Massachusetts residents to get the skills they need to prosper and for companies to have a talented pool of workers to expand," said Governor Charlie Baker. "The training and career-building skills provided by these investments will help bolster economic prosperity and success throughout the Commonwealth."

Wilmington's Teradiode, Inc. was awarded $195,260 to train 83 workers; ten additional jobs expected by 2018.

The Workforce Training Fund assists Massachusetts businesses in becoming more competitive by investing in the skills of their workers. The Workforce Training Fund is also a key resource to thousands of Massachusetts workers who wish to advance their skills to achieve promotional opportunities and higher wages. It also acts as a catalyst for job creation.

The Workforce Training Fund provides grants of up to $250,000 to companies in Massachusetts, to pay for workforce training over a two-year period. Grants are awarded to projects that will upgrade workers' skills, increase productivity, and enhance the competitiveness of Massachusetts businesses. Grants are matched dollar-for-dollar by the award recipients.

The Workforce Training Fund is a program of the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development and administered by Commonwealth Corporation, a quasi-public state agency that fosters partnerships between industry, education and workforce organizations to strengthen skills for youth and adults in order to help them thrive in the state's economy.

become the new program coordinator, were never far away.

Campbell said she and Kanter began working in the department two months after Cipriani became director.

"When Debbie hired us she said she wanted a 20-year commitment. I didn't realize that she meant I would be here 20 years, not her," Campbell said. "We laugh all day long. The highs and lows, we share them all. Many, many residents believe Debbie is their good friend. If they stop in and say hello, she asks about their families. She truly loves the residents. She did a lot of traveling on our recreation trips which builds unbelievable bonds. She brings people together."

"We see the residents in good times and bad," Kanter added. "Debbie grew up in town, which maybe be unique for someone in that position to live in town. She's so highly regarded."

Cipriani, known for her resourcefulness and caring, goes above and beyond to get the job done every day, Campbell said. She shared the story of the year that the department ran out of candy to give out during the popular Horribles Parade.

"Debbie couldn't stand the idea of a child not getting any candy, so we went to a police officer and he offered to give her an escort to the market to buy more. All of the children got candy," Campbell said.

Another example is a celebration Cipriani planned for Bernie McNally, a muchbeloved resident and long-time playground supervisor for the Wilmington Recreation Department who is battling cancer.

"Debbie wanted to do something for his 50th birthday so she pulled it together. Two hundred people showed up to give him well wishes. Debbie made it happen. It was a gift to him and to all of the town. It was an event none of us will ever forget," Campbell said.

During Cipriani's tenure the department created new programs, expanded offering, and improved technology, moving to an online registration system. But it is the human element has set the department apart.

"Our motto is that 'We are the solution' and we really are the solution," Cipriani said. "We're the solution for someone who is new in town and wants to meet people. We're the solution for kids who need more social interaction so they play sports with us. We're the solution for widows and widowers who want to travel, but not alone. For so many we are the solution."

Cipriani shared the story of a retired woman whose husband had passed away.

"She moved in with her daughter and family, and they wanted her to get out and do things. She signed up for every trip and every time came in before the trip and cancelled," Cipriani said.

"One day I said, 'Stop. I won't let you cancel, I know you will love it.' She went on the trip and from then on she is one of our frequent travelers who has made friends with everybody. It is so nice to see."

While these successes warm her heart, she is most proud of the bond she has forged with her staff and with the others she has had the honor of interacting with over the years.

"Linda, Karen and I have been a great team. Over the years we have remained supportive friends both in and outside the office and together have provided hundreds of offerings to choose from," she said. "People are really what make it special. It's been a great job. I am so fortunate."

"Nobody has to come to this office, so we want to make it as welcoming as possible so when they come in it is a cheerful place. People stop by all the time when they are in the town hall paying their tax bill they stop by and say hello so much of the time. It's so special."

A party in her honor is being held on Sept. 27 at Angelica's in Middleton. The celebration begins at 5:30 p.m. with a cocktail hour followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m. The cost to attend is $40 per person. Pre-purchased tickets are required. Tickets are on sale through Thursday, Sept. 15.

Please come in early if you would like to join us as we could sell out! Tickets can be purchased from in the Recreation Department, Town Hall, Room 8. For more information, call at (978) 658-4270.

expanded its offering of programs including trips to landmarks throughout the northeast, the United States and to other countries including the latest trip planned to Iceland," Hall said. "There are programs and offerings for all ages and interests including Kinder Karate, Top Secret Science, a kids basket league, adult pick-up basketball, tickets to theater shows, movie cinema tickets, chair upholstery instruction, paddle boarding and pickle ball are just a few examples. She has always been eager to listen to suggestions and try something new."

Selectman Kevin Cairn counts Cipriani as among the most competent and dedicated public employees he has ever known.

"She is passionate about her work and has consistently gone above and beyond to provide a wide ranging amount of services and programs for Wilmington residents. We are going to miss her leadership as she has set the standard for excellence in the recreation community," Cairn said.

Selectman Greg Bendel said he has not worked with Cipriani very long in an official capacity.

"However, speaking as a resident, I can say that we have been lucky to have someone like Deb working for our residents as long as we have. She has contributed a lot to our community and for that I am very grateful. I wish her the very best in her retirement," he said.

The retirement of Debbie Cipriani is a significant event for the Town of Wilmington, said Judy O'Connell, chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

"Debbie has lead the Recreation Department to providing a higher level of recreation service for residents of all ages," said O'Connell. "She has expanded the types of program offered from trips like the one planned to Iceland to Kinder Karate to Top Secret Science to upholstery classes to name a few. Debbie's positive 'can do' attitude has become the hallmark of the department. She has been the Town's ambassador of fun."

"Debbie will be dearly missed but I believe I can speak for the entire Board in extending our best wishes for a healthy and active retirement."

In Town Hall, where residents were voting on Sept. 9 in the primary election, several poll workers mentioned that they know Cipriani and are volunteers for the Recreation Department. Each one eagerly shared their admiration for a woman who all credit with being warm, welcoming and knowledgeable.

"Debbie does a phenomenal job and goes the extra mile. She's the nicest person you will ever meet," said volunteer Maureen Fiorenza.

"You come in and you get a hug," said Kay Bimbo. "She's a sweetheart. We are really going to miss her. She always has a smile, nice greeting. She's a wonderful person."

Wendy Decidue, a volunteer for ten years, echoed the sentiment. "She's very welcoming. She takes an interest in all of us."

"She helps us in many ways," says Mary Kiesinger. "She's so knowledgeable, flexible and informative. She gets to know you as a person and makes recommendations on what you would like. We love Debbie. Everybody loves Debbie."

WHS Cheerleaders host event with youth girls

My Day Cheering with the Big Girls

By KRISTA BRESNAHAN
Sports Correspondent

krista@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON—On Friday afternoon, Wilmington High School's new cheerleading coach Amanda Beddia held a Cheerleader for a Day event where younger kids could go to the high school and learn cheers, jumps, and a halftime dance from the high school cheerleaders.

There were 19 participants for the event which was available for kids who are in grades one through eight this school year.

"I had seen this done at another school a few years ago and thought it would work well for the community here in Wilmington. The girls love working with the younger kids," said Beddia.

For the cost of $35 for those who registered ahead or $40 for those who showed up without prior registration, with a $5 discount for more than one child, participants for the event were given a T-shirt, instructions on cheering, and a pizza party.

The youth cheerleaders were also given admission for the night's football game where they got to cheer along with the high school cheerleaders on the sideline of the game as well as at halftime. The event lasted from three in the afternoon all the way until the end of the night's football game.

"It's a little chaotic, but fun, the kids have a lot of energy," Beddia laughed.

Some of the kids had experience with cheerleading before from Pop Warner, while others had never done any cheering before.

"There were more kids than we expected, half of them have cheerleading experience and half of them don't," said senior captain Jen Dovidio. "They like to work with their friends, so we try to pair them off together. It's fun working with them, especially since some of us have been cheerleading since we were little too."

"I've never cheered before, it's a lot of fun," said Alexa Demodena, a first grade student who participated in the event.

The event was fun for all involved, the kids learning cheerleading for the first time, the ones who have learned some before but get to learn from older girls who have been doing it throughout high school and before, the high school girls getting to work with the younger kids, and coach Beddia seeing her cheerleaders having fun working with the ing her cheerleaders having fun working with the younger girls. "It's a lot of fun, and we're making sure the kids are safe while doing moves they may not have done before," said Beddia.

Wilmington Chamber of Commerce 5K and Half Marathon event fast approaching

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

Fall is slowly invading the air, which means it is time for the annual Wilmington Chamber of Commerce 5K and Half Marathon event. Every year, hundreds flock to Wilmington to run, jog, walk, or simply enjoy the festivities of music, food and entertainment. And this year promises to be every bit fun.

The race is scheduled for Sunday, September 25. The shotgun start will sound at 10 a.m. at 10 Waltham Street.

This will be the 12th year for the race, and the seventh since the Chamber of Commerce took over the race. Each year, running clubs, families, teams, and independent racers pack onto the streets to test their speed or support a great cause, and every year race director Nancy Vallee and the rest of the event organizers work to keep improving on their own past performances.

This year, in accordance with overwhelming response from race participants, every half marathon runner will receive a medal upon completing the race.

"Every year, I send out a survey to all the racers getting their feedback on the race," Vallee said. "Every year, there is so much overwhelmingly positive feedback...[half marathoners hoping for medals] is something we hear over and over. They work very hard to train and they want that."

As in previous years, a huge part of the race's turnout will be local running clubs, local charity groups, and local businesses. The Sole Sisters running club has grown to become a major presence at almost every local race, and the 5K and Half Marathon has historically been one of the key events for their year. Team Kelly is also a familiar favorite on race day, and Vallee expects that to continue this year.

Premier-level sponsors for this year's race include Hallmark Health Medical Associates, Security Innovation Inc., Warner Babcock Institute for Green Chemistry, and Winchester Hospital, along with over a dozen other local businesses, many of which will provide food and entertainment for runners and attendees.

And that community atmosphere spreads to the whole race, even as it has grown to attract runners from out of state and all over the area. Dedicated volunteers from the town keep everyone safe and on schedule. This year, the entire Wilmington High School varsity cheerleading team will be on hand to volunteer for the race.

Registrations for this year have already surpassed what last year's numbers looked like at this time, which Vallee attributes to the strong word of mouth and the effort that the Chamber of Commerce puts into getting the word out on social media early.

Through years of work and effort, Vallee, the volunteers, and all the race sponsors and organizers have turned the 5K and Half Marathon into a premiere and prestige running event that attracts incredible athletes and hard-working runners from all over. It is Vallee's greatest hope that those who make the commitment to participate in the race are rewarded with an inviting atmosphere, a terrific course, and an entertaining day.

"I hope to see the folks that have been training really hard all year," Vallee said.

"We have a race that's not intimidating and it's right in their backyard. They can walk or run with their friends, and they can always go at their own pace."

You can pre-register online at www.WilmingtonMachamber.com, for $30 for the half marathon or $20 for the 5K. Race day registration is allowed, beginning at 8 a.m. on race day, but it is $35 for the half marathon and $25 for the 5K. Students 18 and younger can register for $15.

Named MASCAC Rookie of the Week

Olson starts collegiate career off on the right foot

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
The fall college sports season is under way, and many of our local athletes are a big part of it, playing very well for their schools and making Wilmington proud. The Town Crier will be covering our local collegiate athletes all season long, so check back often to stay up to date on your favorites.

Starting with cross-country, Worcester State freshman Elisabeth Olson is literally off to a fast start to her college career, competing in two college meets so far and exceeding all expectations in each one.

ELISABETH OLSON

In her collegiate debut at the Jim Sheehan Invitational in Fitchburg on September 3, Olson finished sixth overall in a time of 20:58 over the 5K course.

Olson followed that effort with another great performance in her second meet, finishing 23rd overall in a field of 101 runners at the University of New England Invitational this past Saturday, finishing in a time of 21:43.0.

In each meet, Olson was the second fastest finisher from Worcester State.

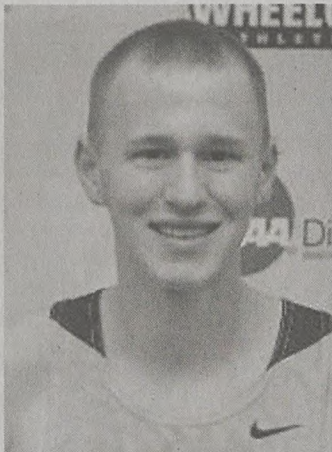

For those efforts, she was named the MASCAC Rookie of the Week.

"Once again, I was very happy with Elisabeth's performance," said head coach Gary Jusseume in a press release. "She has been a great addition to the team and I look forward to seeing her progress this season."

Babson College freshman Maeve Sullivan made her college debut for the Beavers back on September 2, finishing in a time of 14:35.67 over a two mile course in a loss to Wheaton. She followed that up this past weekend with a time of 25:23.74 over a 5k course in the Smith Invitational at Smith College.

Wheelock College freshman Conor Bailey led all Wheelock runner and finished 31st overall in his first collegiate meet, the Southern Vermont Invitational, held on September 3. Bailey conquered the 5K race in a time of 21:22.

SOCCER

Ithaca College senior forward Holly Niemec assisted on the game winning goal in the Bombers 1-0 double overtime win over Farmingdale State on Sunday. Niemec, who was an Empire 8 First team All-Conference selection last season, was credited with an assist on the game winner after her attempt was saved by Farmingdale's keeper before finding the foot of fellow senior Megan Nash.

The win moved the Bombers, who are ranked 23rd in the latest National Soccer Coaches Association of America poll, to 4-0-0 on the season.

Plymouth State junior defender Adrianna Kippenberger has started a pair of games for the undefeated 2-0-2 Panthers on the young season. Kippenberger and her fellow Panther defenders have yet to allow a goal on the season.

Former Wilmington High star Kellie Souza has earned a spot on the Bears roster. The All-Star goalie has yet to see any game action for the Bears to this point.

Curry College junior midfielder Cassie Grasso scored three goals for the Colonels in their season opening 8-1 win over Johnson State on September 1. Grasso is second on the team in shots this season with 19.

Salem State junior midfielder Kaitlyn Curley has started all four games for the Vikings this season. The former Middlesex League Player of the Year saw a lot of playing time for the Vikings last season and will be relied even more heavily this season.

Joining Curley with the Vikings this season are a pair of freshman, defenders Devyn Malatesta and Casey McFall. Both newcomers to the college game have played in all four Vikings games this season.

Worcester State junior forward Ashleigh Howland has started all four games for the Lancers this season, scoring one goal. Her goal was a big one for the Lancers, as it was the game winner in a 1-0 win over Salve Regina on September 3.

Worcester State freshman defender Christina Spinos is off to a fine start to her college career, playing in three of the Lancers first four games, starting two of the contests Rivier University senior forward Jane Farrell has been selected as one of the Raiders team captains this season. Farrell has started all three games this season for the Raiders.

On the Men's side at Rivier, freshman forward Justin Leger is looking to make his mark with the Raiders, and he is off to a good start, having played in two of the team's three games on the season.

The Wilmington trio of Jimmy Murphy, Kory McGilvary and Mitch Goulet are all back for their junior seasons with the Owls, and have helped the team get off to a 2-2 start.

Murphy has played in all four games for the Owls this season, starting one, while McGilvary has started and played in three games and Goulet has seen action in one game.

Worcester State sophomore midfielder Ryan Kinsella is off to a fine start this season, having played in both of the Lancers games, and scoring his first goal of the season on Saturday to help the Lancers to a 4-2 win over Mitchell.

FIELD HOCKEY

Bentley University junior defender Caitlin Derrickson has started all five games on the young season for the Falcons, helping them to a 2-3 record. Derrickson has been part of a defensive unit that has allowed just six goals in their first five games.

Mount Ida freshman midfielder Melissa McNamara has adjusted quickly to the college game, starting all five games for the Mustangs, and scoring a pair of goals in that time, putting her second on the team in that category.

Bridgewater State defender Katherine McKenna has started all four games for the Bears, helping them to a 3-1 record on the season. McKenna played in seven games, starting four of them, for the Bears last season.

WPI junior midfielder Amanda Richards has played in all four games for Engineers, picking up right where she left off last season when she played in 15 games for the team.

WPI freshman forward Bridget Sullivan has also earned a roster spot with the Engineers, having seen action in one game so far.

Rivier University freshman midfielder Jaelyn Fraser scored the first point of her college career in her first college game, picking up an assist during the Raider season opening loss to Western Connecticut State on September 3.

Former Wilmington High star Alexa Peroni has officially made the Endicott College Field Hockey team. The high honors student did not see action in the Gull first two game of the season.

VOLLEYBALL

UMass Lowell senior middle blocker Lauren Bennett had twelve kills and two blocks for the River Hawks in a 3-2 loss to Boston College on Saturday.

Overall Bennett has played in 34 sets on the season, third most on the team, and her 64 points scored on the season are fourth most on the team.

With the loss to BC, the River Hawks are now 5-5 on the season, after winning just four games in each of the past two seasons.

Wilmington Travel Basketball League now to be affiliated with two other leagues

The Wilmington Boys and Girls Travel Basketball League is very excited to announce the launch of the new unified Wilmington Travel Basketball (WTB).

The new WTB will manage all of Wilmington's youth travel basketball programs of play and will be affiliated with both the River Valley League and the Merrimack Valley League.

The mission statement of the WTB: Wilmington Travel Basketball, Inc. (WTB) is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation whose mission is to promote the sport of basketball in a positive and enriching way among the youth of Wilmington.

The benefits moving to a unified Travel Organization are tremendous:

- Aligning under a single mission statement offers the ability to offer a cohesive vision and philosophy for the Travel Basketball community.

- Adopting a singular player development model ensures all youth players have an opportunity to grow and develop their skills to the highest level through a well-defined age-based, systematic approach.

- Moving to a unified shared services model approach for registration, coach training, equipment ordering, player evaluations and team formations, court allocation, community events, marketing and communications, fundraising, professional team training and professional-led clinics and camp offerings will remove the duplication and will greatly simplify the overall experience for parents.

For announcements, we will be primarily using our website www.wilmbtb.org for all youth travel basketball announcements such as registration dates, important announcements and travel program information. We are also available on our facebook page @ <https://www.facebook.com/wilmbtb/>.

The tryout dates have been set. The tryouts for the entire program will take place over the last two weeks of September. Each team will have two nights of tryouts.

It is strongly recommended that players make both tryout dates. It is mandatory that players make at least one. Tryouts will take place at the Middle School Gym.

Boys Soccer team drops first three contests

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

WILMINGTON - It's been a recurring theme the last few years with the Wilmington High School Boys Soccer team. They face three talented teams from the Middlesex League Liberty Division off the bat, struggle to score and find its identity before coming together and playing much better after that first week.

Well here's hoping that happens again this season.

On Thursday night, the Wildcats open their season at home against a talented Woburn team and were defeated 3-0.

"It was a tough night right from the get-go," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "They have a good team, but we came out flat and we couldn't get any possession. When we did get it, we just gave it away. There was a lot of panic. I thought the goals were kind of gift-wrapped. When you're going to drop the ball in a kid's lap, in this league they are going to score. You have to mark tighter (defensively)."

Wilmington only managed three shots on net, and really did test Woburn's goalie. At the other end, the Tanners all but dominated the entire 80 minutes.

"We had a good pre-season but when you come into this league, it's tough," added Scanlon. "I thought (Woburn) was more physical than we were, they beat us to the ball, they are a better skilled team than we are, they had more possession and they played with more intensity. I thought we played better in the second half."

Defenders Dave Bell and Russell Abbott played strong games in the back.

On Saturday afternoon,

Wilmington was defeated by Lexington, 1-0. The game was scoreless until the 75th minute when the Minutemen found the back of the net. Bell, Abbott, Riley Zaya and Ray Russell all played well, while keeper Justin Ekstrom made nine saves in the losing effort.

On Tuesday, Wilmington fell to 0-3 on the season with a 3-1 loss to Belmont. The Wildcats were missing three starters due to injuries.

Senior David Bell scored the team's first goal of the season on a penalty kick. Russell Abbott, Ray Russell, Alex Masiello, Joey Mirabella and Gab Saechandi all played extremely well, said Scanlon.

Wilmington is back in action with road trips to Melrose on Thursday and Wakefield on Wednesday.

Wildcats offense flipped over by Winchester's defense

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON - As they battled their way to a 4-7 record last season, the Wilmington High Football team found themselves in numerous situations where they had played almost well enough to win, only to be burnt by a few big plays that turned the tide of the game, often turning what should have been a close game into a blowout loss.

Unfortunately for the Wildcats in their season opener last Friday night, the trend continued as the Wildcats suffered a 28-0 loss to Middlesex League rival Winchester at Alumni Field in the season opener for both teams.

Despite the lopsided final score, the Wilmington defense did not play badly overall. Instead, they were doomed by several big plays, particularly on third down, by Winchester, while the Wilmington offense struggled to get much of anything going on the night, totaling only 132 total yards of offense.

Wilmington (0-1) fell into a 14-0 hole at halftime and could not dig themselves out of it, as they struggled to find any offensive rhythm to get back into the game.

Winchester (1-0) was led by a trio of outstanding offensive performances from quarterback Liam Fitzpatrick, running back Pat Costello and wide receiver Kevin McDonough.

Fitzpatrick was 10-for-12 for 171 yards and two touchdowns, to go along with a pair of rushing touchdowns, while McDonough hauled in five passes for 146 yards and a pair of touchdowns and Costello rushed for 138 yards.

Wilmington meanwhile was led by junior running back Kyle Penney who rushed for 68 yards, while senior Sam Jennings rushed for 38 yards.

"Winchester played well," Wilmington coach Mike Barry said. "But I don't think we played badly. We had some problems on third down and that really hurt us."

Winchester got on the board on the opening drive of the game, moving 73 yards in four plays with the key play coming on a 61-yard run by Costello and capped off by a seven yard run by Fitzpatrick.

The Wildcats looked ready to respond with a score of their own, as they marched from their 45-yard line to the Winchester 23, led by an eight yard run by Jennings, a 12-yard run by Pat Carroll and a 13-yard run by quarterback Tommy Robarge.

The drive stalled, however, after reaching the 23, and the Wildcats turned the ball over on downs.

Winchester would add to their lead on their next possession on a 69-yard pass from Fitzpatrick to McDonough to make the score 14-0 with 2:47 left in the first quarter.

Once again the Wildcats looked poised to respond, picking up a pair of first downs behind the running of Jennings and Peter Marino, but once again the drive stalled and the Wildcats were forced to punt.

"I don't know if we had some first game jitters or what," Wilmington coach Mike Barry said. "I felt like we were working on executing some nice drives the first couple of times we had the ball, but some mistakes hurt us."

Some of the mistakes Barry referred to included fumbled snaps on the exchange between center and quarterback. The Wildcats had four such fumbles during the game, and although they did not lose any of the fumbles, they obviously caused several drives to stall.

"I was surprised by that, because we hadn't had any problems with the snap in any of our preseason games or practices," Barry said. "Actually, we had been doing really well with that in practice."

Despite the loss, the Wildcats got several outstanding defensive efforts, as senior defensive tackle Jack Sweeney, junior outside linebacker Tyler Roberts and senior defensive back Tyler DeJesus all played well.

They were at their best towards the end of the first half when they held Winchester off the scoreboard to keep the score with-in reach at halftime.

Winchester came out strong to start the second half, however, intercepting a Wildcats pass and then going on a five play, 37-yard drive to extend their lead to 21-0 on a 23-yard run by Fitzpatrick with 7:03 left in the third quarter. On the play before the touchdown, the Sachems had converted on a fourth-and-five with a nine-yard completion.

The Sachems needed just two plays to move 85 yards on their next scoring drive, with Costello getting things started with a 63-yard run and Fitzpatrick capping the drive with a 22-yard scoring pass to McDonough, who made a spectacular leaping catch in the back of the end zone with 5:28 left in the third.

The Wildcats will be back in action this weekend, with a rare Saturday night game at Alumni Field against non-league rival Franklin County Tech. Franklin County, a Division 4A team which is located in Turners Falls, will bring an 0-1 record into Saturday's game after suffering a 34-6 loss to Division 3 Ashland in their season opener last Friday night.

The Eagles are no pushovers, however, as they captured the Tri-County league championship last season by going 7-0 in their league and 8-3 overall before being eliminated in the first round of the playoffs by Lee.

Regardless of their opponent, Barry is most interested in seeing how his team comes out to play in their second game of the season.

"What it comes down to is how we respond in our next game," Barry said. "If we come out and play the way I think we are capable of, we will be OK. Hopefully we can avoid the defensive breakdowns we had tonight, and we can continue to get better every week."

Wildcats dominate Tanners before falling to Lexington

By JAMIE POTE

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington High School Field Hockey team certainly started the season out on the right foot, trouncing Woburn, 4-0, in the team's season opener, before falling 1-0 in a tougher Middlesex League cross-over game with Lexington played Monday night under the lights at Alumni Field.

In the loss to Lexington, junior goalie Rose Cuozzo was outstanding making 19 saves. The lone goal was scored with about two minutes left in the first half on a redirected shot.

"Cuozzo was unbelievable, right? She was just unbelievable," said head coach Leanne Ebert. "We played an outstanding team and program tonight. I told the girls absolutely do not hang your heads right now. In the sixty minutes they played tonight, every single one of them improved."

"I know this doesn't go into the books as a 'W' for us, but it's a win as far as I'm concerned because the team really improved from the start of the game until the end. When I told them to do something, they did it and they brought it onto the field. Now we just need to work from that."

Wilmington was able to push the ball inside Lexington territory several times during the second half but seemed to either miss the net on shots, or try to stickhandle past defenders too much, instead of pushing the ball ahead and utilizing the team's speed, especially upfront. With about two minutes to go in the game, off a corner, Danielle Silva sent a pass out to the top of the circle to Jill Miele and her shot just missed the short side of the net.

"I just really wish we could play Lexington in October, so I have a little time to have the team gel a little bit more and to work together a little bit more," said Ebert. "But it is what it is and the girls should be proud of how well they played for the entire sixty minutes they were all on the field tonight."

"I thought there was a big difference between the first and second half. Lexington dominated the first half and in the second half, I thought we were holding our own and we just didn't capitalize on our scoring chances but we came close."

In the team's 4-0 win over Woburn, junior Sam L'Esperance scored not only her first varsity goal but also her second. Avery Anderson also notched her first varsity goal and Miele had the other. In this game, Cuozzo didn't see a single shot and still recorded the shut out.

Wilmington faced Belmont on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime before going on the road to face Melrose on Friday and Wakefield on Tuesday.

Reading sweeps Wilmington on the (new) course

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sport Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

The Wilmington High Boys and Girls Cross Country teams each kicked off their seasons on Tuesday against Middlesex League power Reading on the newly designed cross country course at Wilmington High, and while the results were disappointing in terms winning or losing the meet, with the boys losing 21-46 and the girls losing 15-50, head coach Brian Schell was anything but disappointed in his team's efforts on the day.

"Reading is a tough team and knowing that going into the meet, today was more of a trial for a lot of the new kids and to see where summer training has brought everyone," Schell said. "I wanted the kids to work on progression during their race, however the heat put a damper on that but it didn't slow down many of them. We had our first meet of the season on our brand new course, and I am very pleased with the overall results."

Many members of the boys team in fact had personal bests for the Wildcats, an accomplishment not lost on Schell.

"We came into the season with only one individual under twenty minutes and in the first meet alone, we finished with four," he said. "Not only that, we have a good amount of the team in the 20 minute and 21 minute range, so if they can work together we can have a lot break that mark."

Jason Dunn was the top runner for the Wildcats, taking third place overall in a time of 17:47.

"Not only was this a personal best for him, it clearly shows how well he has trained and put forth the effort during the off season to get this far," Schell said. "He looked comfortable when needed and strong throughout the race."

Another big performance came from Kevin Elderder who took fourth overall in 18:28.

"I am very happy for Kevin as this was an entire one and a half minute personal record for him," Schell said. "Today he showed to be a true gutsy runner, but if he can learn to race a bit more tactical, big things will come of it."

Other quality times for the Wildcats included: Jesse Valente 19:28 (11th), Greg Adamek 19:40 (13th), Brian Elderder 20:35 (15th), Thomas Goodwin 20:35 (16th), Ben Packer 20:45 (17th), Vincent De La Cruz 21:16 (18th), Jimmy Valente 21:31 (19th), Jake Danieli 21:49 (20th) Pat McCarthy 22:48 (21st) and Thomas Abbot 22:58 (22nd).

While the Girls team struggled in the scoring, the final tally of 15-50 did not tell the entire story, as the Wildcats were vastly outnumbered by Reading.

"With a small team and a wide range of where everyone is for their pace, it is difficult to have the girls work with each other out there," Schell said. "Reading had 26 girls to our seven and it is tough on the team and can get mentally challenging on the girls being surrounded by that many opponents."

Freshman Samantha Burke was the Wildcats top finisher at 23:47 taking 11th overall.

"Sam has looked good for the short time she has been here during the season," Schell said. "She definitely has what it takes to be a strong runner now and the future as she is already running faster times than Elisabeth (Olson, now starring at Worcester State) was during her sophomore year."

Schell added that Lailoo Perrillo and Anna De La Cruz were both battling hip and illness and finished at 24:40 (14th) and 26:10 (20th), respectively.

"Once healthy, I know both of these two will step up their times and will be able to work with Sam to push each other so. I would rather this situation now (to rest them), then at the end of the season," he said.

Other top for the Wildcats included Amie Russell 26:48

(21st), Heather Ritson 30:24 (25th) and Lian Tran 32:27 (26th).

"Overall, this meet was very good start to the season and I also thank Tim Alberts for helping me out with the new course," Schell said. "We have Arlington next and they are even stronger than Reading and have double the numbers."

"Arlington will definitely be another race to fix some things from today's meet and start to get each other to work off one another during the race."

Volleyball squad serves up first victory

By MARK NADEAU

WILMINGTON - It was the fourth time that turned out to be the charm for the Wilmington High girls' volleyball team as it defeated Belmont on Tuesday, 3-0 (25-16, 25-12, 25-16) bringing the team's record to 1-3 thus far.

"We played our best volleyball of the season so far," declared new Wildcats' coach Bruce Shainwald, savoring his first coaching victory at Wilmington High. "A good solid performance that we can build on."

Christina Woods led the way for the Wildcats with 23 serves (four aces) and five kills. Co-captain Heather Pozzi had 11 serves (three aces) and six kills.

Caroline Anderson led the team with ten kills while Lauren Fields racked up 26 assists.

Shainwald thinks his team has found the right lineup to achieve success and will continue to employ it in upcoming matches.

"This was a solid performance from all the veterans on the team," said Shainwald. "They were hungry to show what they were capable of and they certainly did. This was a complete performance."

Serving continues to be a strength for the team but they were able to pass well and convert free balls, even serve receive into points.

In earlier action, the Wildcats fell to Medford, 3-0, in a non-league match played on Monday. Medford won the games, 25-21, 25-16 and 25-17.

Emily Hill and Christina Woods shared the lead in serving with six serves each. Woods had three aces and Hill had two aces, while also accumulating six assists. Sabrina Doyle and Heather Pozzi each had two kills.

"Both teams were very scrappy while making spectacular saves and keeping balls alive," said Shainwald. "I was very pleased to see this finally emerge in competition. This team is starting to play with more confi-

Girls Soccer team takes five out of six points to start the season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com

BELMONT - The Wilmington High School Girls' Soccer team had a very productive start of the season, beating Woburn 3-2 last Thursday and then topping Lexington, 4-1 on Saturday before finishing in a 3-3 tie against an always strong Belmont team on Tuesday night putting the team at 2-0-1 to start the season.

"I've been very pleased with how the younger players have stepped up to this point," said head coach Sue Hendee. "Especially Thea (Aliberti) and Tori (Sheehan as defensive backs). I know they played a lot last year but they are doing a great job, especially the way they played (Tuesday). They are playing very well and looking like seasoned veterans despite being just sophomores."

In the tie against Belmont, Wilmington actually jumped out to a 2-0 lead four minutes into the game and led 3-0 before Belmont's Carey Allard came back to score all three goals for the Marauders, including a penalty kick goal coming three minutes into the second half.

Wilmington got on the board first as Dana Goulet converted off a corner kick taken by senior Stephanie Figueiredo. Then two minutes later, Olivia Wingate set up Heather Niemiec, who found the back of the net and quickly the Wildcats were ahead 2-0.

About 12 minutes later, the 'Cats stretched their lead to three as junior midfielder Bella Granara scored her first goal of the season on another helper from Wingate. Belmont got on the board at the 30th minute mark, and then made it 3-2 as Allard scored on the penalty kick. She then made it a hat trick scoring her third goal of the game coming with about ten minutes left.

"Her third goal was absolutely beautiful," said Hendee. "It was a hard strike to the upper corner." Wilmington keeper Jill Roche made eight saves.

In the team's season opener last Thursday, it was again quick work from the 'Cats offense as Figueiredo scored just two minutes into the season on an assist from Kayla McCauley.

The score remained that way until the 11th minute of the second half when Niemiec scored on assist from Wingate, who then added the third tally nine minutes later on a feed from Jessie McCullough, who registered her first varsity point.

Woburn responded with the game's next two goals but the 'Cats defense held off the Tanners in the final minutes.

Roche had a solid game in the net with nine saves, and Julianna Iocco, Liz Gordon, and Thea Alberti combined for a strong defensive effort said Hendee.

Two days later, Wilmington all but dominated Lexington, 4-1. Wingate scored the first goal on a set up by McCauley, then eight minutes later it was McCauley who scored on a set up by Figueiredo making it 2-0 which stood at the halftime break.

Five minutes into the second half, senior Nadia Barletta sent a pass to Wingate, who from an "impossible angle" scored on a shot that slipped between the goalkeeper and the near post. Then Granara got an assist on the fourth goal which was scored by McCauley.

Jill Roche made six saves for the win, and also playing well were Jayne Wierzbicki, Dana Goulet, and Madi Grace.

Wilmington is back in action first with Melrose on Thursday afternoon at 3:45 at the Shawshen School and then will travel to Tewksbury (1-1) on Saturday morning for a 10:00 am contest, before coming back home on Wednesday to face Wakefield.

Shawsheen Football team crushes Blue Hills to notch first victory

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BURLINGTON - If a football team were to draw up a blueprint of exactly how they would want to start their season, it would probably look a lot like the Shawsheen Tech Football team's season opening win over Blue Hills Regional on Saturday afternoon at Burlington High School. That's when the Rams dominated in all phases of the game on their way to a 34-6 blowout victory over the Warriors to get their season off to a sensational start.

The Rams were led by an outstanding performance by junior quarterback Ryan Sughrue of Tewksbury, who threw four touchdown passes, all in the first half, in his first varsity start.

Behind that strong first half effort, the Rams raced out to a 28-0 halftime lead and never looked back in this rematch of the 2010 Division 4 Super Bowl, also won by the Rams.

"I thought we exceeded expectations in the first half," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "We were hoping to be competitive in the game, but I thought we came out and played really well on both sides of the ball, as well as on special teams."

Shawsheen got the first score of the game late in the first quarter when Sughrue connected with Sean Hines for a touchdown pass with 3:08 left in the first quarter. When senior Craig Rich connected for the first of his four extra points on the day, the Rams had a 7-0 lead and were off and running.

Costabile was happy to see his team, which lost some key players off of last year's squad to graduation, get off to a good start in their season opener.

"A good start can be key for a young team that doesn't really know what it is capable of," Costabile said. "I thought that first touchdown pass really brought the sideline alive and brought the kids on the field alive. We went to the second quarter feeling like we could do some things on offense."

The Rams did plenty of good things in the second quarter, starting with another touchdown pass from Sughrue to Hines for a 14-0 lead with 6:21 left in the half, followed by a ten yard scoring pass from Sughrue to Mark Companschi of Wilmington for a 21-0 lead with 3:45 left.

The Rams would tack on one more before the end of the half, with Sughrue connecting with Dylan Pella with 1:01 left to make it 28-0 as the teams went to break.

Costabile was obviously very impressed with Sughrue in his first half of varsity football.

"I thought Cody played very well for his first start," Costabile said. "He showed great poise, and some sound decision making. You always worry about those two things in the first game, but he did a great job with it. We talked to him before the game about that, and he responded very well."

"A lot of the passes he completed were to his secondary receivers, which was great to see in his first start, and I think he will get to the point where he is checking down to his third receiver as well."

Sughrue wasn't alone in his efforts of course, as he got some great protection up front from his offensive line led by junior guard co-captain Scott Burke of Wilmington, along with junior center Edwin Ortiz of Tewksbury and junior tackle Chris Lucas of Tewksbury.

"The offensive line did a great job of pass blocking," Costabile said. "They gave Ryan plenty of time to throw and to get the passing game going."

While the offense was rolling along, the Shawsheen defense was doing their part to make the offense's job as easy as possible, forcing Blue Hills into several three and outs to return to the ball to the Shawsheen offense very quickly.

Leading the way on defense for Shawsheen were Companschi at defensive tackle with a team high eleven tackles in the game, along with Lucas at defensive end with eight tackles.

"I thought the entire defensive line played very well," Costabile said. "They did a really good job of shutting down plays. The defense did a great job of getting the ball back to us quickly and pinning them deep so we were almost always tarding with good field position. It is much better to start with a 60-yard field than an 80 or 85-yard field."

Making the job the defense did even more impressive was that it came against the Warriors vaunted Wing-T offense, which can be a very difficult offense for a team to stop, since it is not something they see or practice against very often.

Costabile credited his defensive coordinator Ray Morneau for having his players ready for the unique offense.

"Coach Morneau did a great job preparing them and the kids responded very well," Costabile said. "We started preparing for the Wing-T in camp, and I thought the kids did a great of communicating to each other what to do, and it showed with the way they played."

The Rams would close out their scoring with a 12-yard run by Sam Baker with 7:30 left in the game, pushing their lead to 34-0 after failed extra point, before Blue Hills finally got into the end zone with 3:12 left in the game.

The Rams will be back in action this Friday night when they take on non-league rival Arlington Catholic at Hormel Field in Medford. Kickoff will be at 6:30 pm, as the Rams and Cougars will renew their early season rivalry for the 16th time.

"They have been a fixture on our schedule and we have had some great games with them," Costabile said. "They have had a little bit of the upper hand on us, but we have had some great games. They always have tough, athletic kids who give a tremendous effort and I don't expect anything different on Friday night."

Rams Girls Soccer team tops Innovation Academy, 3-1

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BILLERICA - It has been a bit of a mixed bag for the Shawsheen Tech Girls Soccer team to this point in the season, much as coach Doug Michaud had predicted for his young and inexperienced team that lost eight seniors to graduation off of last year's squad.

The Lady Rams got their season off to a great start last Wednesday against Innovation Academy in Billerica, coming away with a 3-1 victory over their non-league rival, getting goals from junior midfielder Brittany Malfa, sophomore forward Megan Brown and junior forward Angie Bankowski of Wilmington.

Bankowski is coming off a good season last year, and Michaud is hoping for even more from her this season.

"I am expecting a lot out of Angie," Michaud said. "And that's only because I think she is up to the task. At the end of last year, I think she was not real happy with the way things were going, but she played well in the tournament and scored a goal against North Reading, and I think that gave her some confidence coming back."

Michaud obviously has some great confidence in Bankowski as well, as she was recently selected as a co-captain for the Lady Rams along with senior midfielder Annmarie Riddle.

The Lady Rams took a 2-0 lead into halftime, and were never seriously threatened in the second half thanks to the effort of a shut down defense led by sophomore Shannon Fitzpatrick and junior Catherine McKenna, along with junior goalie Emily Langone, who made 12 saves on the day.

"Emily was not tested a lot, because we were playing well defensively, but came through with some big saves when we needed her to," Michaud said.

In their next game, once again at home against St. Mary's things did not go as well for the Lady Rams, as they dropped a 4-1 decision to a talented Spartans club. The news was not all bad for Shawsheen, however, as after falling into a 3-0 deficit at halftime, they played much better in the second half, playing the Spartans to a draw over the final 40 minutes.

"I liked how we played against St. Mary's. We were very evenly matched with them," Michaud said. "They had a really quick forward who scored two goals early on, but at halftime we talked about what to do to contain her and we did a good job of completely frustrating her from that point on. It was good to see us improve within the game."

Shawsheen wrapped up their week with a scoreless tie against Assabet Valley on Monday, a game in which Michaud felt his team deserved a better fate.

"I think we hit the crossbar twice and a couple of posts as well, and then we had a couple of shots that went across the mouth of the goal," Michaud said. "We just could not find the inside of the net."

With a 1-1-1 record after three games, Michaud obviously seen the ups and downs of his team, but overall he has been very happy with his team's and feels like if they maintain that level of commitment more wins will come their way.

"I haven't felt like anybody we have played so far was completely uneatable just like I don't feel we have played anybody who was not capable of beating us," Michaud said. "They have all been very even games, including today (vs. Assabet) when I felt like we handled the ball better than they did, but we did not dominate. If we keep playing like we have so far, I think we can do well."

Rams Cross-Country teams to run to another winning season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

Both the Boys and Girls Cross Country teams at Shawsheen Tech enter this season on the heels of successful campaigns last season, as the boys went 9-1 on the season with their only loss coig to Greater Lowell, while the girls posted a 6-4 mark on the season.

The Rams were set to open their season on Wednesday afternoon at Notre Dame in a tri-meet against Notre Dame and Greater Lowell as the Town Crier was going to press, and coach Pat Kelly, who enters his second season as the Rams leader is confident that the tri-meet could be the start of big seasons for both the boys and the girls.

The girls will run against both defending champion Notre Dame along with Greater Lowell, while the boys will run against defending Boys champion Greater Lowell only.

The girls will be led in the meet as they will be all season long by junior Jackie Broderick of Tewksbury,

The Shawsheen Tech Boys and Girls Cross Country teams include local runners from left, Ryan Anderson of Wilmington, Joshua Fitzpatrick of Wilmington, James Ward III of Tewksbury, Jackie Broderic of Tewksbury, and Hayleigh Perry and Ivana Wiskey, both of Wilmington.

along with sophomores Ivana Wiskey and Hayleigh Perry of Wilmington, junior Alesha Talbot and senior Taylor Lynch, all returning to the team from last year's squad. Broderick, in fact finished eighth out of 91 competitors at last year's CAC championship meet, while Wiskey and Perry also each performed well in the meet.

The Lady Rams will also have some promising young runners joining the team this season, including sophomores Alex DiPerri and Sam Moriconi and freshman Kara Salvi.

"We have a good group of young ladies participating in the sport for the first time," Kelly said. "We have some good talent, and I feel we will improve upon last year's record both within the league and at the State Vocational Championship Meet."

It would be difficult for the Boys to improve much on last season's stellar record, but that is the plan for Kelly and rest of the Rams, who return a talented group of runners led by seniors Jake Ferri and Connor Larson, junior RJ Page and sophomore Ryan Smith along with other promising returning runners Tim Burns and junior Brandon Bicknell.

The boys team also had a good amount of first timers to cross country joining the team this season. Two of the promising newcomers are junior Jared Mason and freshman Jalen Massengill.

"We feel the boys will do well this year. Our toughest task may be our first meet against Greater Lowell," Kelly said. "With that being said, it is a very competitive league for this sport and any team has a chance of winning the title. We want it to be us!"

While Red was held scoreless on the offensive side of the ball in the first quarter, they struck with a quick two-play, 80-yard scoring drive highlighted by a Nick DeGloria 60-yard pass to Mike Sullivan and a Colin Frasier 20-yard scamper for the touchdown.
